We welcome

All the contamination professionals and experts

It is a great honor for the Cleanroom Technologies Society of Turkey to host the 25th International Symposium on Contamination Control, ICCCS 2022 here in Antalya, Turkey. The symposium will be held in October 11-13th, 2022. Having started in 1972 in Sweden, this adventure took place in Korea, 2014; in Brazil, 2016; in The Netherlands, 2018 with the participation of about 400 contamination control and cleanroom experts from 50 different countries.

The 25th International Contamination Control Symposium, the theme of which is "Contamination Control Is In Every Aspect of Our Lives" will meet our valued guests. While talking over the importance of contamination control in different industries such as; pharmaceutical, health, defense, aviation, electronics, biosafety, semiconductor and automotive, we will have the opportunity to review together a great many technologies that support and make our lives easier even when we are not aware. The symposium will host ISO TC 209 delegates from 23 member countries developing ISO 14644 standards and we will be getting first hand information about the future of the standards. This will also be our first hosting for the annual meeting of ICCCS CoD meetings and board of directors in our country. During three days in full, we plan to make you meet global brands and important names of the sector and make the best of it through different panels, trainings, technical trips and sessions. Having started this journey with the "Education, Communication, Sharing" motto, we will host this first-time event in our country and working on to make this experience unique for all guests. On behalf of the Cleanroom Technologies Society of Turkey and of the whole organizing committee we welcome you to ISCC2022 and are looking forward to meeting you in our spectacular city Antalya in October 11-13, 2022!

Sincerely,
Hasim Solmaz
Symposium Chair, ISCC2022
